Craig Messerman is a 9th and 10th grade physical science and biology teacher at Sentinel High School in Missoula, Mont. He has been teaching science in Montana since 1988, after earning his teaching credentials and undergraduate degree in geology from the University of Montana. In 2000 he received an M.S. in Science Education from Montana State University. While at Sentinel High School, he has collaborated on freshman teaching teams and smaller-learning communities, and he is currently working on a freshman STEM Academy to be implemented in 2014.
